Audi Tradition recently purchased the entire new old stock (NOS) from a Paraguayan DKW dealer that has since closed up shop. The store began buying up NOS for spares and servicing in the 1950s but after moving on to VW sales in the 1960s found there was little call for the DKW parts. Fortunately the spares were not scrapped but stored away. Audi bought the entire stock and relocated it to Germany. Unfortunately they will only sell the parts within Germany and Austria but it's at least good to see Audi actually paying some attention to its 'back catalogue.'
